

A small, extending rod you bought from a man known as Kigi Schwindel. His name may sound suspicious, but he is a man of his word! From the merchant himself, "You may doubt my authenticity but know this, a man of the Schwindel family never defrauds a customer!"

Extendo

Melee Weapon (Simple)

Category: Items

Damage: 1d4 in small form and 1d8 in large form

Damage Type: Bludgeoning

Item Rarity: uncommon

Properties: light, versatile

Range: 30/90 (meaning that it can be thrown up to 90 feet, but anything beyond 30 will have disadvantage on the attack roll)

A metal tube of unknown make, with the interesting ability to quickly extend from its small form up to twice the size of a common quarter staff (12 feet) when the top is pressed. The exact length it extends must be specified upon use, if not specified it will stretch to the maximum length. If the Extendo hits someone while extending you can have the target make a Constitution saving throw, upon failure they are knocked prone.